Background

Texas Indigent Defense Commission staff visited Dawson County in 2013 to assess the county's indigent defense systems and to determine if the county was meeting Fair Defense Act requirements. In June 2013, the Commission issued the initial policy monitoring report, which made several recommendations to assist Dawson County in meeting the core requirements of the Fair Defense Act. Recommendation topics covered: 1) maintenance of records for attorneys on the juvenile appointment list; 2) timely appointment of counsel in misdemeanor cases; 3) waivers of counsel in misdemeanor cases; and 4) compliance with felony defense contract terms. The report found the county's procedures met the presumed thresholds for the other core requirements of the Fair Defense Act.

May 2017 Follow-up Review

Staff members Joel Lieurance and Brandon Bellows conducted the follow-up review with a visit to Dawson County between March 22nd and 23rd, 2017.¹ The purpose of this review was to examine whether Dawson County successfully addressed the recommendations from the June 2013 report. The monitor examined: misdemeanor case files; data reported to the Commission as part of the annual Indigent Defense Expense Report; vouchers paid to the contract defense attorney; records showing proof of CLE compliance; and documents submitted to the Commission as part of the local indigent defense plan. The monitor's report follows, and the county must respond to the May 2017 report recommendations.

Establish minimum attorney qualifications

The 2013 review found that the county did not maintain records indicating whether attorneys on the juvenile appointment list met their annual CLE requirements as set in the local indigent defense plan (six hours in juvenile law). In this review, the monitor examined current practices, and found the county now tracks records documenting that attorneys have met this requirement.

Appoint Counsel Promptly in Misdemeanor Cases

Under Article 15.17(a) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, once a request for counsel is made, the magistrate must ensure requests are transmitted to the appointing authority within 24 hours. Under Article 1.051(c), the appointing authority then has three working days to appoint counsel for those deemed indigent (in counties with a population under 250,000). In FY2016, about 36% of misdemeanor cases in Dawson County were represented by appointed counsel. This is comparable to statewide levels (45% in FY2016).

The 2013 report found that appointments of counsel in misdemeanor cases did not meet the Commission's threshold for presuming a jurisdiction has procedures in place to ensure timely appointment of counsel. The lack of timely appointments appeared to be the result of: 1) a breakdown in the transmittal of misdemeanor requests for counsel to the courts and 2) a lack of procedures to deny indigence for defendants who do not meet the local financial standard.

In the current review, the monitor examined 85 misdemeanor case files and found records indicating counsel had been requested in 30 case files. All determinations of indigence that were timely were made on the same day as the request. There were no denials of indigence in this sample, and thus all determinations of indigence resulted in the appointment of counsel. Counsel was appointed in a timely manner in 60% of sample cases, and so fell below the Commission’s threshold (90% timeliness) for presuming a jurisdiction has procedures in place for timely appointments of counsel. When determinations of indigence were not timely, there was either no ruling on a request for counsel or the appointment was made more than 20 workdays after the request.

May 2017 Recommendation 1: Dawson County must implement procedures to ensure timely determinations of indigence in misdemeanor cases. Specifically, all requests for counsel must be transmitted to the appointing authority so that all requests can be ruled upon.

Waivers of Counsel

Article 1.051 of the Code of Criminal Procedure addresses waivers of counsel and allows written waivers of counsel that are voluntarily and intelligently made.² Articles 1.051(f-1) and (f-2) require a waiver of the opportunity to retain counsel before the

² Article 1.051(f) states:

A defendant may voluntarily and intelligently waive in writing the right to counsel. A waiver obtained in violation of Subsection (f-1) or (f-2) is presumed invalid.

defendant can speak with the prosecutor. Article 1.051(g) requires a written waiver of the right to counsel so the defendant can enter an uncounseled guilty plea.

Under 1.051(f-1), the prosecutor may not initiate a waiver of counsel and may not communicate with a defendant until any pending request for counsel is ruled upon and the defendant waives the opportunity to retain private counsel. Under 1.051(f-2), the court must explain the procedures for requesting counsel and must give the defendant a reasonable opportunity to request counsel before encouraging the defendant to communicate with the attorney representing the state. All requests for counsel must be ruled upon prior to a waiver of counsel. Before a defendant enters an uncounseled plea, he or she must sign a written waiver, the language of which must substantially conform to the language of 1.051(g).³

Issues Found in Case File Review

When misdemeanor arrestees request counsel, the courts must have a system in place to rule on all requests and either appoint counsel or determine the person is not indigent. In two cases from the monitor's sample, defendants made a request for counsel at the Article 15.17 hearing, but there was no documentation that the requests had been denied. Later, each defendant entered an uncounseled plea.⁴ In three other cases, defendants requested counsel without a ruling on the request, and the cases were later dismissed (one in exchange for a guilty plea in another case and two for completion of pre-trial diversion). All five cases involved communication between the prosecutor and the defendant after the defendant had requested counsel. Article 1.051(f-2) states:

... If the defendant has requested appointed counsel, the court may not direct or encourage the defendant to communicate with the attorney representing the state unless the court or the court's designee authorized under Article 26.04 to appoint counsel for indigent defendants in the county has denied the request and, subsequent to the denial, the defendant:

- (1) has been given a reasonable opportunity to retain and has failed to retain private counsel; or*
- (2) waives or has waived the opportunity to retain private counsel.*

³ The waiver language of Article 1.051(g) states: "I have been advised this _____ day of _____, 2____, by the (name of court) Court of my right to representation by counsel in the case pending against me. I have been further advised that if I am unable to afford counsel, one will be appointed for me free of charge. Understanding my right to have counsel appointed for me free of charge if I am not financially able to employ counsel, I wish to waive that right and request the court to proceed with my case without an attorney being appointed for me. I hereby waive my right to counsel. (signature of defendant)"

⁴ In these two cases, Article 1.051(f) may be implicated, since issues with (f-1) and (f-2) may impact the validity of the 1.051(g) waiver.

May 2017 Recommendation 2: As required by Article 1.051(f-2), Dawson County must rule upon all requests for counsel prior to procuring a waiver of counsel for the purpose of speaking with the prosecutor. In order to rule upon all requests for counsel, the courts must ensure procedures are in place to: (1) receive all requests and (2) appoint counsel or document the denial of indigence.

Compliance with Felony Defense Contract Terms

Contract Caseloads

The 2013 report found that the attorney who contracted to represent defendants in felony cases exceeded the caseload limitations set in the contract. At the time of the review, the defense contract referred to the ABA's recommended caseload limitations. Under this limitation, the contract attorney could not exceed a combination of cases equivalent to 150 felony cases, 400 misdemeanor cases, 200 juvenile cases, or 25 appeals cases. His contract work exceeded these totals, and he handled additional cases beyond those covered by the contract.⁵

Since that review, the caseload limitations set in contract have been revised upward to 400 cases and only covers the four counties of the 106th Judicial District. The contract no longer limits the attorney's full workload so that contract representation may be diligent and effective, but only the workload from contract cases. The contract now states:

DISTRICT JUDGE will monitor ATTORNEY's caseload under this contract to ensure that the quality and effectiveness of ATTORNEY's representation of defendants is not compromised and that each defendant is being provided effective representation. If DISTRICT JUDGE finds that ATTORNEY's representation is being compromised or is falling below that which is expected by the Court, DISTRICT JUDGE will make adjustments to ATTORNEY's caseload. ATTORNEY's caseload under this contract shall not exceed 400 actual cases over the entire four counties of the 106th Judicial District.

To provide effective assistance of counsel, an attorney must ensure a meaningful adversarial testing of the prosecution's case, which often requires a significant time investment.⁶ One method of ensuring attorneys have adequate time to devote to individual clients is by controlling caseloads. Following passage of HB 1318 in 2013, the ⁵ The contract attorney reported that he had been appointed to 254 felony cases and 2 appeals cases across the 4 counties involved in the contract. The attorney noted that the contract represented about 60% of his total work. Based on the caseload limitations set in the contract, if the contract attorney did no extra work outside of the contract, he would have been limited to 150 felony appointments per year. The 254 felony appointments and 2 appeals appointments were equivalent to 1.77 times the threshold set in the contract. If one took his outside work into account, and if the contract attorney's assessment that the contract comprised about 60% of his annual workload was accurate, his caseload exceeded the contract threshold by 2.95 times.

Texas Legislature instructed the Commission to publish a study determining reasonable caseloads in Texas.⁷

The Texas study included an advisory panel of stakeholders who provided input into the study's methodology. The data used to determine reasonable caseloads included a timekeeping study, a time sufficiency survey, and feedback from experienced criminal defense attorneys. The resulting Weighted Caseload Guidelines determined that the maximum annual caseload under which an attorney could provide reasonably effective representation was 128 felony cases of mixed offense levels or 226 misdemeanor cases of mixed offense levels.⁸ An addendum to the Weighted Caseload Guidelines has been released, and this addendum determined the expected maximum annual appellate caseload for an attorney to be 31.2 felony appeals cases.⁹

In FY2016, the felony contract attorney disposed 288 cases under the contract (275 felony cases, 4 misdemeanor cases, and 9 appeals cases). This caseload falls within the current contract limitations. While the contract attorney met the annual caseload limitations set by the contract, his contract workload (for FY2016) was 2.4 times the recommended total under the Weighted Caseload Guidelines. If one were to consider the percent of the attorney's time devoted to matters outside of the contract, one may get a better idea of the reasonableness of his caseload. However, the contract attorney did not report the percent of time devoted to indigent defense cases in each county as required by Article 26.04(j)(4).

Compensation for Contract Services

The 2013 review found that, while the contract set a monthly basis for payments, there was no monthly voucher that was to be approved by the appointing authority (i.e. the district judge) prior to payment for services rendered.¹⁰ The current review found

⁷ The bill required the Commission to:

[C]onduct and publish a study for the purpose of determining guidelines for establishing a maximum allowable caseload for a criminal defense attorney that ... allows the attorney to give each indigent defendant the time and effort necessary to ensure effective representation.

¹⁰ This requirement, specifically for contracts, is set in 1 Tex. Admin. Code § 174.25, and for all payments for defense services in Article 26.05(c) of the Code of Criminal Procedure. 1 Tex. Admin. Code § 174.25 states:

The contract shall state that the contractor shall be required to submit an itemized fee voucher. The voucher must be approved by a member of the appointing authority prior to being forwarded to the county financial officer for approval and payment.

Article 26.05(c) states:

that this issue has been rectified, and monthly vouchers are now approved before being forwarded to the county financial officer prior to payment.

Conclusion

The monitor enjoyed meeting with Dawson County officials and staff, and appreciates their cooperation during this review. Commission staff stand ready to provide any assistance the County may need in addressing the issues identified in this report.

Status of Recommendations from the June 2013 Review

Core Requirement 3. Establish minimum attorney qualifications.

Recommendation 1: Dawson County must implement procedures to track CLE hours of attorneys on the juvenile appointment list. Successfully Addressed.

Core Requirement 4. Appoint counsel promptly.

Recommendation 2: Dawson County must implement procedures to ensure timely determinations of indigence in misdemeanor cases. In particular, all requests for counsel must be ruled upon. Issue still pending.

Recommendation 3: Dawson County must implement procedures to ensure that the court rules upon requests for counsel prior to granting any waiver of counsel. The procedure must provide that the court may not direct or encourage the defendant to communicate with the attorney representing the state until the court advises of the right to counsel and explains the process for requesting counsel. Article 1.051(f-1)(1), Code of Criminal Procedure prohibits an attorney representing the state from initiating or encouraging a waiver of counsel from an unrepresented defendant. Issue still pending.

Core Requirement 5. Institute a fair, neutral, and non-discriminatory attorney selection process.

Recommendation 4: The parties to the contract for felony defense services must follow the terms of the contract according to the contract's caseload limitations. Excessive caseloads could compromise the quality of representation provided for indigent clients. Successfully Addressed.

Recommendation 5: The County must ensure that procedures are in place to meet the requirements of 1 TAC § 174.25 and Article 26.05(c) so that itemized fee vouchers are submitted and approved by the appointment authority prior to payment by the financial officer. Successfully Addressed.

No payment shall be made under this article until the form for itemizing the services performed is submitted to the judge presiding over the proceedings or, if the county operates a managed assigned counsel program under Article 26.047, to the director of the program, and until the judge or director, as applicable, approves the payment. If the judge or director disapproves the requested amount of payment, the judge or director shall make written findings stating the amount of payment that the judge or director approves and each reason for approving an amount different from the requested amount.

Recommendations from the May 2017 Review

The county must provide a written response to each of the May 2017 report recommendations.

Core Requirement 4. Appoint counsel promptly.

May 2017 Recommendation 1: Dawson County must implement procedures to ensure timely determinations of indigence in misdemeanor cases. Specifically, all requests for counsel must be transmitted to the appointing authority so that all requests can be ruled upon.

May 2017 Recommendation 2: As required by Article 1.051(f-2), Dawson County must rule upon all requests for counsel prior to procuring a waiver of counsel for the purpose of speaking with the prosecutor. In order to rule upon all requests for counsel, the courts must ensure procedures are in place to: (1) receive all requests and (2) appoint counsel or document the denial of indigence.
